Tax Season Offers a Chance to Hit Reset On Your Finances

Tax season presents a great opportunity to hit reset on your finances. With a little prep – organizing your documents, reviewing deductions, and filing on time – you can reduce stress now and make smarter choices if a refund comes your way. Instead of treating that refund like “extra” money, consider using it to jump-start your savings and build a cushion for the months ahead.

You might be thinking about what to do with a potential refund. While it’s tempting to splurge, using that extra cash to pay down debt can be one of the most rewarding financial moves you make.

Imagine the peace of mind and freedom that comes with smaller balances and fewer payments.

Let's explore how you can use this opportunity to take a big step toward a brighter, debt-free future.

5 Steps to Financial Peace

- Orlando Magazine's Best of ORL – Vote daily through May 1.

Fraud Alert

Current Scam: Spoofing

What is it?
Spoofing is a type of fraud where a scammer disguises themselves as a trusted source such as SCCU, a business, or a known individual to trick you into sharing information or sending money.

Safeguard yourself with 3 steps:
Pause – Urgency is a common scam tactic.
Verify – Hang up and call us using the number on your card, or log in through the official app.
Protect – Never share your PIN, password, or one-time passcode (OTP). We will not ask for it.
